HOG CHOLERA IN BENTON COUNTY

Dr. W. A. Walker, United States Veterinary Inspector of Jackson, Tenn., who is in charge of hog control work in West Tennessee, was in Benton County on Monday looking into reported sickness in hogs.

Dr. Walker stated to a Chronicle reporter that a number of hogs are dying in various parts of the county, and he has been able to diagnose hog cholera in some of the herds. He thinks that most of the trouble among the hogs in this county is cholera, and suggests that the farmers vaccinate their hogs against cholera before sickness develops in the herd.

He says that vaccinating hogs in well herds properly the results will be satisfactory, but after infection has shown up in the herd the results following vaccination can not be as satisfactory.

Dr. Walker's services in helping you diagnose hog diseases can be obtained without charge through your local veterinarian or by writing him or calling phone 594 Jackson, Tenn.

"TUNE UP"

The air all about you is full of radio messages, but no matter how good your receiving outfit may be, you will hear nothing unless you tune it up and adjust it to the proper wave lengths.

The newspapers may be full of advertising messages, but they are lost on you unless you READ them. You are reading this one. There will be others in this space, some serious, some with a kick like a mule, but all will be worth getting in touch with. Watch this space each week. In radio language "tune up" with us. You'll be interested.
